BORN IN HAVANA, Cuba, of Polish parentage, Lateiner's career developed brilliantly from an early age. As a boy he studied first with his mother, then with Jascha Fischermann, and appeared with the Havana Symphony under Ernesto Lecuona. When Lateiner was 11 his family moved to Philadelphia so that he and his younger brother Isidor, a talented violinist, could enter the Curtis Institute of Music.

Five years later both boys won first place as pianist and violinist respectively, in the Philadelphia Orchestra's youth competition. While still a student at Curtis, Lateiner appeared with the Boston Symphony under the direction of Serge Koussevitzky where a record audience of 14,000 gave a standing ovation for his performance of Beethoven's "Emperor Concerto."

Pop's Penguins Promise Pre-Tour Fun, Laughs

by Val Hill
Daily Universe Writer

MR. POPPER'S PENGUINS, a play full of fun and laughs by Dr. Albert O. Mitchell of the speech department, will be presented for Brigham Young University and the public Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in College Hall.

The play, the second of the 1956-57 Youtheatre series, will play for Provo and Orem audiences for one week, after which it is then scheduled to go on tour through the northwest between quarters.

Mr. Popper's Penguins is a story for young people that tells how Mr. Popper, an easy going house painter, stumbles into a strange predicament. He acquires a penguin—then two. Soon there are many little penguins. Poor Mama Popper keeps the family going on beans while the penguins live luxuriously on canned shrimps, move into the Popper refrigerator and generally take over the household. How Mr. Popper, his delighted children and his perplexed spouse get out of this complicated crisis makes a humorous story.

MR. POPPER will be played by Prof. Frank Wilkinson of the department of psychology, who last appeared as the firecracker manufacturer of "You Can't Take It With You."

Elaine Erickson will appear as the harassed wife of the penguin fancier, with Lynn Palmer and John Snell as the children. Other members of the cast are students from BYU, local high schools and elementary school students. The baby penguins will be pre-school children.

The company, which will go on tour by bus, will number approximately 30. The show leaves for its tour of the Northwest on March 14 and is expected to return to Provo about March 24.

PERFORMANCES, WHICH number 14, are scheduled in Jerome and Twin Falls, Ida., Ontario, Portland and LeGrande, Oregon; and in Olympia, Yakima and Seattle, Wash.

The play has been produced by youth groups in every state in the union and in Canada. Also it has been put on twice by professional youth groups in New York. Adapted from the novel by Richard and Florence Atwood, the story is considered as a play for the whole family to see.

The Utah County performances include two matinee shows at the Sceera Theatre on March 7 for the Lincoln Junior High School and Orem elementary schools. Two afternoon performances for Provo City Schools and two evening performances for the public will be offered in College Hall on March 6 and 8.

The price, according to Dr. LaVar Bateman, publicity, is 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

Assisting Director Mitchell is Uwarda Shirts. Robert Struthers is in charge of scenery and Charles Henson and Jim Fife are in charge of lighting.

Sound is under the direction of Dick Gailey, with Alyric Ray taking care of the properties. Marilyn Wood is the dance director for the penguins. Scheduling of the plays has been under the direction of publicity chairman, Dr. LaVar Bateman.

Friday Pre-Registration Deadline Nears

Friday is the last day students will be allowed to pre-register, according to Bliss Crandall, dean of admissions.

Students are also urged to pay their tuition and fees early in order to avoid the inevitable lines at registration, he said.

By Tuesday only 1,100 students had pre-registered and only 800 had paid their fees.

The pink trial registration slips must be filed at the Registrar's Office before students will be allowed to register for Spring Quarter on March 19, Crandall said.

Activity cards are now available for those who have paid their fees for the entire year, the Treasurer's Office also reported.

Polio Strikes Separated Buddies

by David Wilkinson
Daily Universe Writer

DAN STEWART and Grant Grover were schoolmates at East High School in Salt Lake. They were typical Mormon students.

While Stewart chose the University of Utah and Grover, Brigham Young University, both planned to interrupt their schooling to serve missions for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Both planned to go on to graduate school, Stewart to Stanford Law School and Grover to a college well-equipped in speech and hearing therapy. With their fine minds and attitudes, they had every reason to face the future with the confidence of youth.

WHILE THEY WERE on their missions, polio struck them both. Stewart was flown home from Germany in a specially equipped plane. Thanks to the Polio Foundation, he was given careful and expensive attention at a California polio hospital.

The disease which now crippled him he had always thought of as "Infantile Paralysis". But he learned at this hospital, where there were two adult patients for every infant, that it should be called "Adult Paralysis". "Besides, adults always get hit harder," Stewart added.

Grover tells the same story. He was in far off New Zealand 20 months ago when he contracted the disease in an epidemic.

"The whole second floor of an understaffed hospital was converted into a polio ward. I was there six months during which time I saw many youngsters come, and after a few weeks, walk away. But of over 20 adults in the ward, only the chap next to me escaped without paralysis.

"The deaths occurred among the adults."

TODAY GROVER is back on campus. He drives a handsome controlled car and will graduate this spring.

Stewart is also home and anticipates the day when he can get back on the Utah campus, just across the street from his home.

It is thrilling to see that while polio can cripple bodies, it can not cripple indomitable minds. It is likewise thrilling to know that it can be cured and now, at long last, prevented. "A dollar for a polio shot is the greatest investment anyone can make," Grover commented.

HUMAN LIVES are not measured by the dollar sign. The money spent on Stewart and Grover would pay several times over for the immunization of the entire Utah and BYU student-bodies, but this is unimportant.

Right now the Salk vaccine is important. Appointments are still being made for the BYU clinic which begins tomorrow and runs through Saturday.

BIGGER AND BETTER, 1957

LAST YEAR the Daily Universe adopted a policy of folowing policies and platforms of each individual candidate for studentbody office in an effort to promote more intelligent thought and consideration in studentbody elections.

With petitions now in circulation for studentbody ofices and elections coming in the near future, it is felt the following reprint from a Daily Universe editorial of March 28, 1956, (Make 'Em Show Something), is in order.

WHILE A YEAR has passed since it was first published, the message it carries is no less important. The situation is essentially the same as it was last year, even though tremendous strides have been made in political mindedness on campus.

"Posters, lapel cards, signs, photos and banners proclaim in various ways the personality virtues of the candidates.

While it's not to the credit of our democratic system of election, the determining factor in a candidate's success is the 'front' he displays during the campaign.

"UNFORTUNATELY, Brigham Young University political procedure seems to consist nearly entirely of 'glad handing' and cute verses on campaign literature.

"No one seems to worry about the candidate's plans for executing his responsibilities once he is in office. It is taken for granted that a candidate is running because he is conscientious and qualified for the job he is seeking.

"NOT ONLY does this attitude promote an unreal and entirely worthless atmosphere as far as political development is concerned, for both the voter and the candidate, but it tends to lessen the attractiveness of studentbody offices.

"Many qualified candidates do not run for studentbody offices because they realize that true ability plays only a small part in the election of these officers, and that the bright ideas of a campaign manager are more effective than the ideas and ideals of the candidate himself.

"BYU is passing through a period of growth and expansion. Policies and attitudes adopted now will have a profound effect on future studentbodies.

"Why not encourage a candidate to present a solid platform and a definite program of progress for his term? Make him investigate the functions and past performances in his office and demonstrate that he knows what he is talking about when his posters advertise that he is "On the Ball," or that he has a "Good Grip on the Situation."

"EVEN A FULL slate of candidates who would work for the same program wouldn't be out of order.

"Aside from providing a high caliber of studentbody officers, this program would help prospective political candidates by giving them actual experience in displaying their 'winning ways' to constituencies and it would help develop an inquiring mind in voters which could be put to good use later in voting for city, state and national officers.

"It's a two-way proposition, student. Help yourself while you're helping the university."

In Neatness, Color And Overall Appearance . . .

Gals Seen Colleges' Best-Dressed

MINNEAPOLIS (ACP) — In terms of neatness, color, and overall appearance, coeds are deemed better dressers by both college men and women. Naturally the coeds feel somewhat stronger about this than do the men, but even a majority of the men are in agreement with the coeds.

Here is the exact question as asked by Associated Collegiate Press of a representative national cross-section of college students:

Who do you feel are the better dressers, in terms of neatness, color, and overall appearance, college men or college women?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
College Men	26%	15%	22%
College Women	56%	66%	60%
Undecided	18%	19%	18%

WITH STUDENTS believing coeds are better dressers the feeling is generally that coeds are more "clothes-conscious," are more interested in their appearance than men. Others think women have better taste for color. Some feel the coeds are under a sort of social pressure to keep themselves neat and stylish. Here are a few representative comments:

A freshman coed at Rochester Institute of Technology (Rochester, N.Y.) feels "women have more of a 'need' to dress up," while a male freshman attending the University of Denver (Denver, Colo.) simply says: "The girls are more conscious of clothes than men." And a University of Maryland (College Park) junior coed puts it this way: "The majority of men just don't care, while the social pressure is on every woman to look neat at all times."

"JUDGMENT IS more often passed on girls rather than boys in regard to their dress," is the way a Wake Forest College (Winston-Salem, N.C.) male senior feels. A male graduate student at Syracuse University (Syracuse, N.Y.) has this to say: "College men look sort of factory produced in the black and grey flannels. Girls have a much better sense of imagination with combinations, tones and shades of color." But it takes a Tyler Junior College (Tyler, Texas) freshman coed to come up with the thought held by many college men: "College women are trying to make a good impression on college men."

AS FAR AS COLLEGE men go, a good number of both coeds and men feel they dress too sloppy and casual, or as one coed said. "Men are generally sloppy creatures." However, there is a considerable amount of opinion among both college men and women that men are indeed better dressers. Here are a few typical remarks:

"Men's clothes are tailored more simply, without frills, and are usually neat," is the feeling of a Mississippi College (Clinton) freshman coed. But a male freshman attending the College of Steubenville (Steubenville, Ohio) feels this way: "Men take pride in themselves and their clothes every day, while the girls keep most of their good clothes for dances and parties instead of school."

A MALE JUNIOR at Juniata College (Huntington, Pa.) looks at the situation like this: "It is easier for the fellows to look nice; the girls have to 'do too much' in order to look 'dressy'."

But a Wake Forest College senior coed sees it as a matter of taste, in favor of men: "Women too often take it for granted that they are better dressed, but the men display better taste most of the time."

"College men are more conscious of their everyday attire, whereas college women only dress up for special occasions," is the way a male freshman at Ohio University (Athens) feels.

STUDENTS FINDING themselves undecided on the issue have several reasons. Some feel the men and coeds have separate standards and can't be compared. Some believe they both have their good and bad points. Others feel it depends upon the school or location or condition. Here are a couple of typical replies:

"It's a personal thing; no stereotype is fair," is the comment of a male junior at the College of Physicians and Surgeons (San Francisco). A male sophomore at Syracuse University sees it this way:

"I THINK EACH sex dresses in a mediocre fashion. Both college men and women are neat at times, remarkably sloppy at others." And a senior male attending the University of Maryland has this opinion: "Some of my fraternity brothers are sticklers for neatness in appearance and some of the guys are slobs, but so are some of the girls!"

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

Safety Valve

by the Readers

Never Proper . . .

Dear Editor,

I WONDER whether Messrs. Bradshaw, Brown, Thatcher, Hawkes, Andrews, and Griffiths (Safety Valve, Mar. 1) really meant to darken counsel without knowledge? Their basic premise—that one should suit his language to the occasion—is correct but not in the way they have assumed.

The "authorities" (and I shall not here inveigh as they would expect a stuffy English teacher to do about their glib generality) were surely speaking of the proper level of language (formal or informal); for no recognized authority whom I know has ever condoned illiterate English for any occasion. In fact, illiterate English is never suitable* and definitely never proper.

AND WHAT is the "occasion" referred to by these gentlemen? Unless I am living in gross darkness myself, the occasion is the daily publication of a college newspaper: a newspaper at a college, mind you, that prides itself upon its seeking after the best that has been thought and written in all areas of learning; a newspaper at a college, mind you, whose president has recently felt it necessary to begin a Better English Program because he was—and still is—so concerned about the poor English used by many BYU students and teachers.

To support such a program is hardly stuffiness; one would be tempted to call such support an "occasion" for college loyalty or "school spirit" (forgive my glib generality). As I think about the problem, I can not understand how these young gentlemen could possibly consider the Daily Universe an extramural organization, not bound in any way by the University's policies.

PERHAPS I am taking too seriously what, for these gentlemen, was just a way of expressing publicly their grudge against an English department that still believes in giving poor grades for poor English usage. Perhaps these gentleman were sincerely endorsing the school of Sloppy Joe journalism.

Whatever the motivation for their letter, I should like them to know that the "occasion" in which they find themselves—college students among other college students who are trying by their words as well as their actions to become a part of the liberal collegiate tradition—hardly permits of their grossest error: muddled, generalized thinking, expressed in muddled, generalized language.

I might add that my purpose in writing this letter is not so much to reform these gentlemen as it is to inform them. But if my letter should become a source of reforming light, then I should be truly and humbly pleased.

Homer Statham

BYU Foreign Language Meet To Feature Latin Contests

ANNUAL FESTIVAL of Foreign Languages at Brigham Young University for the second time will include Latin contests, according to the language department chairman.

Ernest J. Wilkins, festival chairman, explained that Latin was added two years ago in order to present an expanded program that met the desires and needs of participating high school students. It has been very successful, he noted.

"The one day festival is to be held March 30 on BYU campus. Vocabulary, conversation, poetry reading and oratory contests will be held in German, Spanish, French and Latin," Dr. Wilkins added.

IN ADDITION, guided tours of the language exhibits and facilities of BYU, a discussion for high school language teachers, and an awards assembly will highlight the day's activities.

All Utah high school students who are studying one of the four languages are eligible to compete in the events.

The festival's main purpose, according to Dr. Wilkins, is to stimulate interest in foreign language study especially on the secondary and elementary levels and to offer guidance and suggestions to teachers now engaged in foreign language work.

VICTOR C. HANCOCK, chairman of the modern language department at Weber College, will deliver the main address to the students at 10 a.m. The students will also hear from Harvey L. Taylor, executive vice president of BYU.

After the assembly, which includes Spanish, French and German speaking demonstrations, the students will be taken on a guided tour of the various language facilities on campus. Following this, lunch will be served in the Joseph Smith cafeteria, with the principals and teachers meeting together for lunch and discussion of successful methods of foreign language teaching.

Angel In Pawnshop Scheduled Next By Dramatists

Next major production of the Brigham Young University dramatic department will be Angel in the Pawnshop.

This play is the story of a young girl's chance entrance into the pawnshop of a cynical old man. She changes the life and attitudes of the owner and many of his clients during her stay.

Scheduled for March 20 through 23 in the Smith Auditorium, Angel in the Pawnshop replaces the drama Crime and Punishment.

In the part of Hilary, the pawnshop owner, is Carl G. Markworth and Lizzie, the angel, is played by Mary Ann Nelson. Others in the cast are Tom, Charles Whitman; Danny O'Keefe, Roger Brown; Drunk, Brad Powell; Duke Jones, Ron Matson; Timothy Spangle, Gary Stewart; Joe, Joe Kirk; Young Man, Dick Walsh and Priscilla Nash, Bonnidean Petty.

Director of the production is Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, assisted by Robert Struthers, technical director. Dorothy Whitaker is costume director.

tudents' Life's Goals Questioned

by Pat Bringhurst

AT ARE YOU going to of your life?" was the n put to the studentbody lham Young University by Adam S. Bennion at the y devotional.

Bennion, a member of uorum of the Twelve s of the Church of Jesus of Latter-day Saints, used premise a scripture from nthians 9:6. "But this I which soweth sparingly eap also sparingly; and ich soweth bountifully eap also bountifully."

UR LIFE is sacredly It's never been lived be- obody else can live it and ou can set the bounds," Bennion stated.

t one does with the heri- ven him depends on three according to Elder Ben- They are Knowing, Doing elieving—used not as but as nouns.

wing is gained through study and Elder Bennion set forth five fields of study and challenged the audience to take advantage of his college life to investigate these fields.

THE FIRST FIELD is language. "You get the flavor and genius of a people" when you learn to speak their language.

Conducting the devotional assembly Tuesday was Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of BYU. This is the first regular assembly Pres. Wilkinson has conducted since his illness last October. He expressed his appreciation to the studentbody for their faith and prayers in his behalf.

The second field is science. "Know what's going on," Elder Bennion urged. The third field —history and geography—opens the way to learning the history of man and the great places of the world.

THE FOURTH FIELD of literature is that in which Elder Bennion is concerned. "I've never been the same," he said, "since being introduced to such great works as those of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton and Dante."

The fifth field is religion. "Students at BYU have a great opportunity to seek the answers to those eternal queries concerning man's soul and that part of life that is termed mortality," Elder Bennion stated.

IN LEARNING to be doing one should keep busy doing good things. Elder Bennion stressed. "Get busy in the Church . . . cultivate school activities . . . get a hobby."

To strengthen one's belief Elder Bennion recommended that everyone memorize the Ten Commandments, the Beatitudes, the Articles of Faith and the Word of Wisdom. "If you do this you won't have to look for things to do," he said.

IN CONCLUDING Elder Bennion gave his "homemade recipe" for leading a good life: 1. Live in honor; 2. Covet or seize no man's property; 3. Wrong no one's good name; 4. Make a habit of being hopeful; 5. Keep in regular contact with your Maker.

Preceding Elder Bennion's speech, the Madrigal Singers presented "I Am An American" with Dean McMahon marrating.

Universe All-Star Quint Named

Watts Selected As Top Coach

In naming an all-conference team, the choice of the outstanding coach in the conference must also be considered, and this year, in the opinion of the Daily Universe sports staff, there is none more deserving of the title than BYU's own Stan Watts.

Faced with what most people considered a dearth of basketball talent at the beginning of the season, Coach Watts made no excuses to anyone, but went to work molding a team that was to end up number one in the Skyline, and the league's representative in the NCAA Tournament.

The end result was a team with a terrific will to win, coupled with a good background of basketball fundamentals.

Kittens Boast Enviable Record; Beehive State Freshman Title

by Jack Batchler

Now the tumult and the shouting over the Skyline Champs are subsiding, time out should be taken to hand Coach Bob Bunker and his freshman charges a nod of recognition.

The game Kitten newcomers have left behind them a trail of shattered records and defeated teams, and picked up the mythical Beehive State Championship.

This year's edition of the pocket-sized Cougars has turned back 12 teams including three wins against Hill Air Force Base, three wins against the Utah State Frosh, and three over the Papoose first-year five.

Coach Bunker, the man who made it all possible for the Kittens, has turned in his second undefeated season since his coming to Brigham Young University in 1948.

Top Skyline Scorers Chosen On Mythical First String Five

by Daily Universe Sports Staff

CHOOSING an All-Conference Skyline basketball team has all the pitfalls of a Moscow tour. Also, with such well-balanced clubs participating this year, it is difficult to name five truly outstanding players.

However, running the risk of incurring the wrath of cage fans from the Canadan border to the Mexican line, the Daily Universe sports writers herewith take a dive into the dark and come up with a quint we challenge anyone to match.

First Team		Second Team
JOHN BENSON, BYU	Forward	ZIP RHOADES, Mont.
MILT KANE, Utah	Forward	TED SMITH, USAC
DICK BROTT, Denver	Center	JOE LOCKYER, USAC
TONY WINDIS, Wyo.	Guard	CURTIS JENSEN, Utah
TOM STEINKE, BYU	Guard	HARRY ANDERSON, BYU

Honorable Mention

Stan Albert, Colo. A&M; John Teel, New Mexico; Russ Sherrif, Mont.; Terry Eckhardt Wyo.; Roy Thacker, BYU; Lynn Rowe, BYU; Jerry McCleary, Utah; Gary Hale, Utah; Clancy Waters, Mont.; Boyd Grant, Colo. A&M, and Ernie Uthgenannt, Denver.

WITH THE crystal balling business currently in shaky straits, we may have concocted a second team that is capable of knocking off the first five at any given time.

The star-studded first quint also numbers the five top scorers according to Skyline final statistics.

FEATURED among the mythical starters are the league leading scorer, Milt Kane, and the record breaking rebounder, Brott.

Kane has set a blistering scoring pace in the second half of play to run off with the point production crown. "Uncle Milty" has proved to be a dangerous gunner from any spot on the court and has run up 38 points on two occasions.

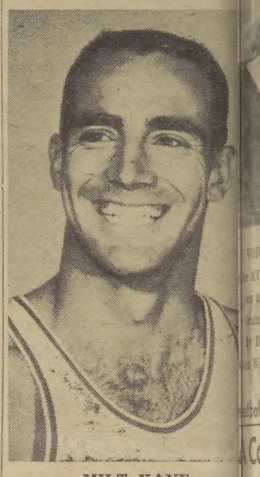
NO MOUNTAIN States team would be complete without Long Tom Steinke. "Stank" has had a string on the ball all season, and but for a low scoring effort against New Mexico he would have grabbed the scoring title. His unorthodox jacknife shot has been the terror of conference play . . . and just about uncheckable.

THE CHAMPION BYU squad contributes another on our first line team, fiery John Benson. Probably no other player this season has shown so much competitive spirit. Slim John has been an all-around man for Coach Stan Watts this year, grabbing off rebounds by the bushels and pumping in baskets at a consistent 20-point-a-game pace.

TONY WINDIS, sweet shooting Wyoming eager, is the only sophomore to crack the first five. Windis has hit for an average of 18 points a game and shows promise for a great future in cage circles.

Dick Brott is the big man of the conference. Brott has pestered opposition with the smoothest hook shot in the league. Brott's 268 rebounds battered into oblivionth the old board sweeping record of 220.

TOM STEINKE
. . . Little All American



MILT KANE
. . . Scoring Leader

Cat Wrestlers In League Match

Coach Allen Davis' Cou grapplers journey to Laran Wyo., for the Skyline Con ence tournament March 15 16.

Davis will take a crew eight sophomores and junior the circuit meet. BYU has a season mat record.

Utah State and Mesa Jr. C lege are the only teams to b the Cougars this year. USAC it twice.

BYU has wins over West State College of Colorado, U (twice) and Montana State.

Davis was confident that Cougars, who are building year, had a chance to finish the first division. BYU has sibilities of winning at l three weight divisions.
